The Defence Academy is part of the Ministry of Defence. Its purpose is to develop the intellectual edge needed for success on operations and leadership in government. The Academy delivers courses designed to unlock the cognitive skills of its students to expand their intellectual horizons and capacity. Its portfolio of long and short courses covers leadership, strategy, science and technology and business skills.

The Defence Academy’s main site is located 80 miles west of London along the M4 corridor, close to Swindon with its excellent rail links into London.

One of the largest conference areas available on site is the Technology School which houses a large selection of military hardware in exhibition style focus areas with impressive IT and AV facilities.

Meetings and syndicate rooms, on the ground floor provide comprehensive event facilities.

The Conference Hall comprises two sections, a tiered seating lecture space and an exhibition hall which can be used as a breakout area for networking and catering.

Beckett House is surrounded by its own landscaped grounds adjacent to an ornamental lake and is an ideal location for high level management meetings which demand intimate, prestigious surroundings, without an overly military flavour.

Dating from the 18th Century, Beckett House underwent a sensitive refurbishment in 2007 and now includes a linked annex housing 50 en-suite rooms. Seminar rooms are available to cater for up to 60 people, with a variety of audio-visual and seminar facilities available.

Its vision is to be recognised as an education provider of choice for defence, security, government and beyond.
